RESOURCE OVERVIEW

Almost 70% of the English language is derived from Latin and Greek languages. When students learn these “building blocks” it becomes easy for them to recognize and decode unfamiliar words that are related to a known root. It is also increasingly important to explicitly teach students the meanings of Greek and Latin roots as they encounter the very technical vocabulary found in science and other content areas.

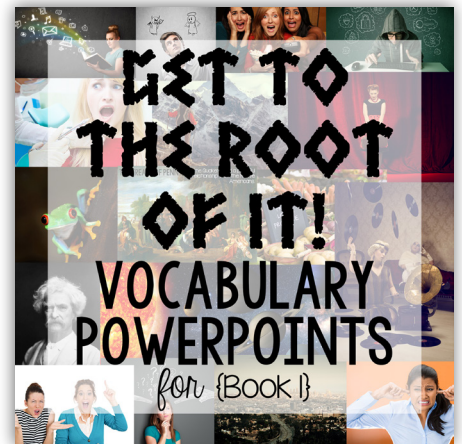

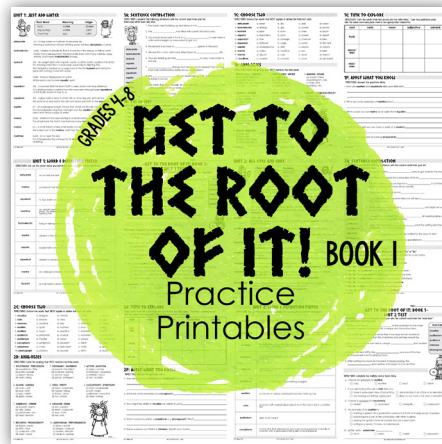

This resource combines the instructional value of Greek and Latin roots with the active engagement of Interactive Notebooks. Included are 120 Interactive Notebook activities that will help your students understand the meaning of several words related to over 130 different roots. Each root activity covers 3-6 preselected words. However, blank templates are also included so that you can select your own words. In addition to the Interactive Notebook pages, you will also get word and definition lists for each root.

TIPS AND SUGGESTIONS

- If your students are new to Interactive Notebooks (INB), it is important that they know to only use small dots of glue. Students will tend to go overboard on this unless you explicitly show them. Also, I do not recommend the use of glue sticks; the bond will eventually break and the pages will fall apart. A little Elmer's School Glue will go a long way. Having at least one glue bottle for every 2-3 students is sufficient.
- You do not need a separate INB to use this resource. If you are already implementing a reading and/or language arts INB with your students, you can simply incorporate the activities from these pages.
- Save some time when coloring. Students do not have to color every minute detail of these activities. Some time-saving options include: tracing the edges with a highlighter or marker, coloring only a few elements (see "cor", Latin for heart, for an example of this), or not coloring at all. What's most important is that students make the connection between the visual of the notebook page and the meaning of the root and related words.
- Each root activity has a page with preselected words and a blank page for the words of your choosing. If you would like to use your own words, I recommend checking out this site: http://myvocabulary.com/dir-root-root_master#D http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_Greek_and_Latin_roots_in_English. Both sites provide pretty extensive lists of Greek and Latin roots and words that are related to them.
- Decide how you would like your students to find the definitions to the words. Do you want definitions preselected and prepared for the students to copy? If so, then you can hand them a copy of the word and definition list located at the end of the resource. Would you like them to find definitions for themselves on the Internet or in a dictionary? Another option to consider is to allow students to find their own words and definitions.
- Feel free to have students use the space on the notebook pages to expand their work. They can write sentences with the words used in context or list additional words that are related to the root.
- Don't have a lot of time to dedicate to individual INBs? Make a class Greek and Latin Roots INB. Assign a separate root to individual students or student pairs. Once the page is completed, the students or pairs can present their root to the class. You can use the completed pages to make a class book or you can put them up as a bulletin board.

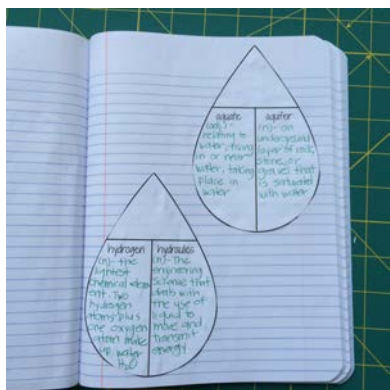

aqua Latin - "water"

hydr Greek - "water"

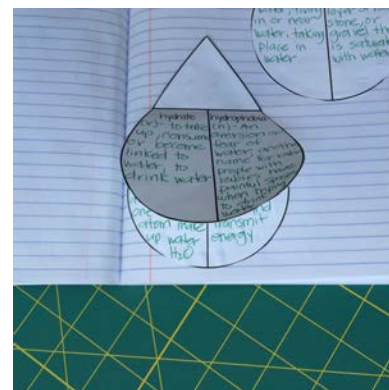

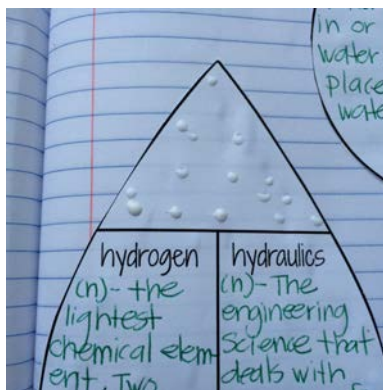

1. Complete and cut out all of the pieces. There are two sets of arrows; you'll only need to use one set depending on where the droplets are positioned on the page.

2. Glue down one page for each of the droplets.

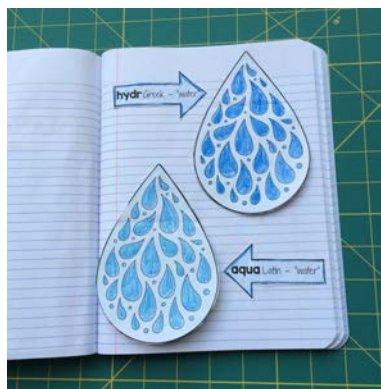

3. Apply small dots of glue on the top portion of the bottom page and attach the next page on top.

4. Bend the droplet covers backwards on the grey lines and glue the top portion on top of the pages.

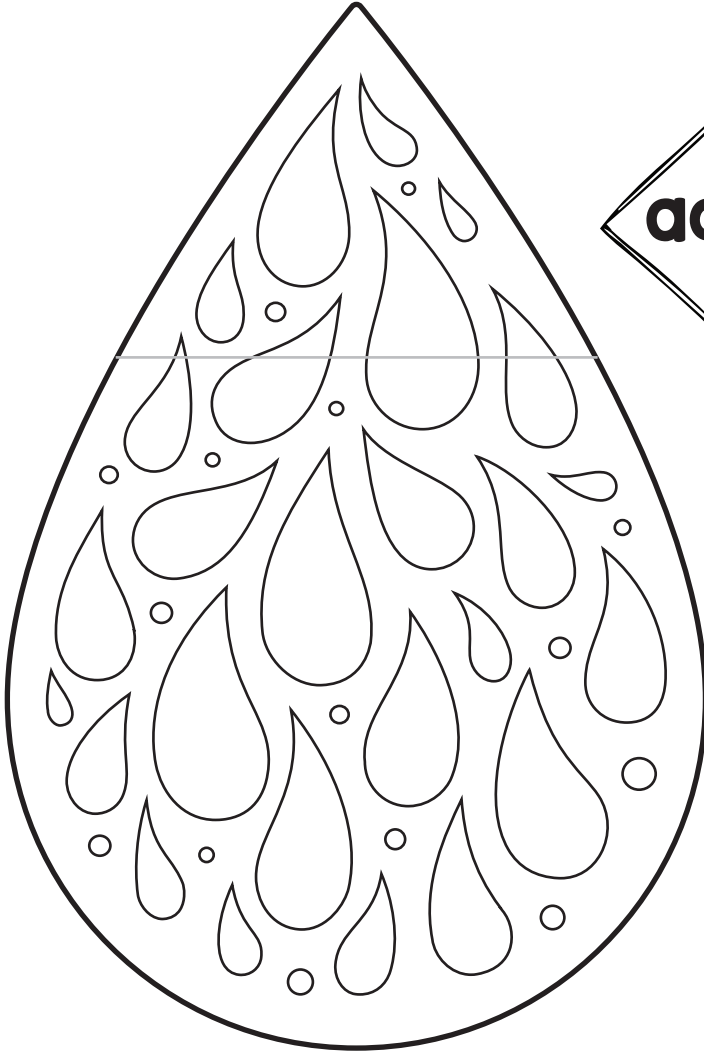

5. Glue on the arrows; use the set with the appropriate direction for your droplets.
