Seas in Space
When Galileo observed Earth from space, he noticed these words, which he thought were signs. He named these signs "Mare Volcani" (Sea of Clouds), "Mare Araneorum" (Sea of Arachnids), and "Mare Tranquillitatis" (Sea of Tranquility). It was later discovered that these areas were large deposits of basalt, a dark, metamorphic rock.

Nicolaus Copernicus (1473-1543)
In 1500, Copernicus published a book about the sun being at the center of the solar system. He believed that the sun was at the center of the universe, and the planets, including Earth, orbited it. This theory was revolutionary because it contradicted the long-held belief that Earth was the center of the universe. Copernicus's theory was not widely accepted until the 17th century.

The Electromagnetic Spectrum
The electromagnetic spectrum is a range of frequencies of electromagnetic radiation. It includes radio waves, microwaves, infrared, visible light, ultraviolet, X-rays, and gamma rays. The visible light spectrum is the portion of the electromagnetic spectrum that is visible to the human eye. It ranges from approximately 400 nm (violet) to 700 nm (red).
